The first List A game against Glamorgan was in the new 'Sunday League' in 1969 a 40 over game played at Llandudno. The game was rain affected and in the days before Duckworth/Lewis was decided on a countback. Glamorgan were 74-0 off 24.4 overs when the rain came chasing a Leicestershire total of 141. The countback required was to compare the Leicestershire score after 24.4 overs which was only 67, so Glamorgan won.

The early years of the 'Sunday League' were popular for the use of outgrounds. Foxes have played 21 list A games against Glamorgan in Glamorgan but only 5 have been played at the County Ground Sophia Gardens in Cardiff. Swansea has been a popular alternative but matches at Llandudno, Colwyn Bay, Neath, Pontypridd & Ebbw Vale have also taken place.

All Leicestershire's home matches have been played at Grace Rd apart from the first in 1970 which took place at the Snibston Colliery Ground in Coalville. The last time county used this ground was for a Championship match against Derbyshire in 1982
